The Best Sports Rehab Interventions of 2019

Traditional interventions can be counterproductive in sports rehab, activating self-defense mechanisms that freeze muscles, compress nerves, sharpen pain, and diminish performance.

And when these “tried and true” treatments fail, clients can give up on therapy completely – leaving you questioning your effectiveness and worrying that your treatment methods are out of date.

But with the latest techniques for treating sports injuries and biomechanically enhancing athletes, your work can deliver triumph from trauma, helping clients confidently return to play, prevent re-injury, and achieve peak performance – no matter what their sport throws at them.

Join Dr. Shaun Goulbourne as he shares new techniques and tests that will empower you to counteract the unique stressors of today’s sports. Learn how to analyze and improve the full kinetic chain with functional movement screening, guiding athletes to faster recovery and stronger, safer performance. Practice today’s best conditioning strategies to optimize energy transfer and improve impact absorption. Achieve better treatment outcomes by more effectively combining multiple modalities, from exercise to joint manipulation and IASTM. And design advanced, innovative plans of care for a wide variety of common sports injuries.

Sign up now, and whether your next patient is a weekend warrior or a Golden State Warrior, you’ll be ready to confidently guide them toward rapid improvements with the best methods available in sports rehab.
